

Parents' View of Henry's Seizure Condition and Prevention Strategies

Diagram of Henry's Seizure Pathways

1 Definition, Prevention, and Intervention for Conditions at Stage 1

A Flu/cold presented as cough, runny nose, and other symptoms

- 1 Avoid close contact with people who are showing signs of flu or cold.
- 2 Monitor white blood cells when he is on seizure medications.

B Stress presented as fussiness, crying, increased resistance, and flight response

- 1 Use soft or low tone of voice when talking to him; avoid blaming him when he does not follow your instruction, as he seems to understand more than he can verbalize.
- 2 Use more flexible, relaxed methods when requiring him to do tasks.
- 3 Maintain his routine; change slowly and gradually and only if needed.
- 4 Set up an environment that is enjoyable and less restrictive for him.
- 5 Do sensory integration exercises.

C Hyperactive status presented as rapid breathing or shortness of breath and dry cough resulting from sustained fast walking, crawling, and climbing, accompanied by extreme excitement

- 1 Use any calming technique that will distract him from his attention on physical movement, such as but not limited to:
 - a. holding him in your arms; letting him sit down or lie down
 - b. turning on TV or changing channels; turning on soft or low-tone music
 - c. providing him with his favorite toys
 - d. taking him to a different place for a change of environment

2 Strategies Used for Conditions at Stage 2

D Fever

- 1 Send him home to rest.
- 2 Treat aggressively with medication to lower temperature.

E Vomiting

- 1 Calm him down and let him rest.

2 Call parents if vomiting continues for more than 20 minutes.

F Lack of sleep, fatigue, low blood sugar

1 Ensure sufficient food intake at every meal.

2 Ensure sufficient sleep every day (in particular, taking a nap after lunch).

3 Actions Taken When at Stage 3 — Seizures

1 When seizures (e.g., general tonic-clonic or partial) last 3 minutes or more, administer Diastat rectally and call 911 for ambulance to transport Henry to the nearby hospital.

2 Notify parents immediately.

In addition: On any school day in which no RN will be present, please notify parents so that one of them can either attend with Henry or keep Henry home.
