

55 Fruit Street
Bulfinch 370
Boston, MA 02114
(617) 643-1606
orcd@partners.org

Director
Tayyaba Hasan, PhD
Bulfinch 370F
(617) 643-2589
thasanORCD@partners.org

Program Manager
Wendy Zosh
Bulfinch 370G
(617) 643-1170
wzosh@partners.org

Staff Assistant
Peggy Ryan
Bulfinch 370
(617) 643-1606
mryan11@partners.org

The MassGeneral Institute for Neurodegenerative Disease and The Office for Research Career Development (ORCD)

present

Jang-Ho Cha, MD, PhD, Associate Professor of Neurology

How to Give a Good Talk and Why it Matters

For a scientist, the ability to give a good presentation is often the single most important factor in determining success, however, most scientists receive little training or frank feedback on their speaking skills, slide design and presentation of their data. This workshop focuses on the elements on how to give a good talk, as well as how not to give a bad talk and why this matters to your career.

Wednesday, September 27th, 2006

10:30 – 11:30am

CNY, Room 114, D1/2/3

Snacks and refreshments will be available.

Please RSVP by email to orcd@partners.org or by calling our office at (617) 643-1606.